A Friend in Deed is a Friend we Need!

Last month more and more people noticed the importance of our good friend Adam Kostinecki. He had given a lot of people good memories. He was always the class clown. For me he was a friend that was always there for me kind of friend. Now he lives in Minnesota and has been for at least a couple of months. We have asked a good friend of Adam, Corey Teller what he thinks about Adam: "he was a really good friend, he had really great sportsmanship, he was also very funny. He was a Jolly Rancher". (Everybody who played soccer with him called him that.) that was what Corey had to say about Adam. It wasn't a lot of words, but it meant a lot! We will always try to remember are great friend Adam who has been there for us.

The Truth About Hay Bales

The story of the three little pigs is exactly the opposite of real life in one part. It is when the wolf blows down the straw house and eats up the plump fat pig.

But in real life straw is actually a very good and cheap way of making houses. Michael Furbish built his house entirely out of hay bales! It was a 2 story building and has three bedrooms. His company even provided 4000 hay bales to finish a project in friends Community School of College Park in Maryland.

They say the hay bales are very light and they are they are strong and won't rot unless water gets onto it we think that a hay bale house would be very, very good for the environment.

Results of the TURKEY BOWL!

Hello, Sports Fans and Sports players. Today's article is about The Turkey Bowl. The Turkey Bowl was a success. All though the Eagles lost everybody had a great time. So now I want to talk to about some stuff. Ok, the Steelers won with an amazing touchdown to start the game, which lead to many other great touchdowns. The Eagles first touchdown sadly was their only, but it was a great pass from Alex Burman to Alexander Belanger. The Steelers captains: Alex Ischiropoulis and Sam Petrovitch did a great job. So did the Eagles captains: Alex Kwon and Alex Burman. So did the Cheerleaders, Mascots, Band and Video people.
